Introduction

A pathfinder is a guide to the resources in a particular subject area in the library. It is an instruction/research tool designed to encourage researchers to do a self-directed use of the library.

The Science and Technology Library provide pathfinders basically to support students and faculty in their search for recorded literature and resources available at the USC Library System and accessible on the Net.

Should you have comments, questions and suggestions on this pathfinder, please contact Science and Technology Library at 2300100 local 193 or email to cllanticse@usc.edu.ph

Key Term : Pharmacy/Pharmaceutical

Scope : The scopes of practice describe the health services that form part of the profession of pharmacy. There are three scopes of practice - intern pharmacist, pharmacist, and pharmacist prescriber. The practice of pharmacy may include:

- the custody, preparation and dispensing of medicines and pharmaceutical products;
- the selection and provision of non-prescription medicine therapies and therapeutic aids;
- provision of advice on health and well-being, including health screening;
- researching and evaluating information and providing evidence-based advice and recommendations on medicines and medicine-related health issues

Try the Online Databases via your Library Webpage
(www.library.usc.edu.ph) Search the EBSCO Discovery Service to find articles on your subject/s.

Internet/Web Resources : A Word of Caution

The Internet provides access to a large range of resources. However, students are advised at all times to consult original peer-reviewed material, published in reputable journals. Where those journals are accessible on the Internet that is acceptable.

If you do choose to use web resources it is critical that you be able to evaluate quality, validity and usefulness of the resources you find.

Key web resources in pharmacology

A selection of authoritative drug and medicine web sites are listed below.

- British National Formulary \(BNF\)
An electronic version of a joint publication of the British Medical Association and the Royal Pharmaceutical Society of Great Britain aiming to provide up-to-date information on medicines.
- Drugs.com \(Drug Information Online\)
A U.S. website providing drug information for consumers and health professionals.
- Health Insurance Commission \(HIC\) Statistics

An interactive website providing statistics on medicine use in Australia.

- Medscape
Medscape contains extensive medical information aimed at healthcare professionals.
- Motherisk
A Canadian website providing evidence-based information about the safety of drugs during pregnancy and lactation.
- Therapeutic Goods Administration \(TGA\)
The website of the Therapeutics Goods Administration, a division of the Australian Department of Health & Ageing.
- U.S. Food & Drug Administration \(FDA\)
The website of the U.S. Food & Drug Administration.

PHARMACOLOGY ONLINE RESOURCES

DATABASES

Drugs and Pharmacology - EMBASE (BC Community Only)

Coverage: 1990-present

A subset of the EMBASE database, Drugs & Pharmacology provides comprehensive, world-wide coverage of the drug and pharmacology literature. Topics included are the effects and uses of drugs and drugs being developed, clinical and experimental aspects of pharmacokinetics and pharmacodynamics, side effects, and adverse reactions. Coverage includes all letters, reviews, editorial notes, and commentaries, in addition to every article. Records contain citations and abstracts.

Please Note: 4 users

EMBASE Pharmacy (BC Community Only)

Coverage: current 10 years

Pharmacy, a subset of the EMBASE database, covers all aspects of drug formulation, regulations and legal aspects, quality procedures, and pharmaceutical technology. The EMBASE databases complement the information available in MEDLINE. Records Contain Citations and Abstracts.

Please note: These databases are searched using the same strategies as CINAHL, the nursing database.

INTERNET SOURCES OF PHARMACOLOGICAL INFORMATION

U.S. Food & Drug Administration

“The FDA is responsible for protecting the public health by assuring the safety, efficacy, and security of human and veterinary drugs, biological products, medical devices, our nation’s food supply, cosmetics, and products that emit radiation. The FDA is also responsible for advancing the public health by helping to speed innovations that make medicines and foods more effective, safer, and more affordable; and helping the public get the accurate, science-based information they need to use medicines and foods to improve their health.”

Web site includes regulations, alerts, news, and many informative links. See especially “Information for Health Professionals” <http://www.fda.gov/oc/oha/default.htm>

RxMED <http://www.rxmed.com/>

A web site edited by physicians for physicians and patients. The scope of coverage includes information about 3000 prescription pharmaceuticals and 400 illnesses, as well as articles written by experts.

RxList <http://www.rxlist.com/>

Reports information on over 5000 products, updating every few days. FDA reports are updated yearly. Includes side effects, drug interactions, and prices.

Mosby’s Drug Consult <http://www.mosbysdrugconsult.com/>

Provides information on the top 200 prescribed drugs, including prices. Features news articles, FDA drug approvals, drug indication and dosage updates, safety alerts, and links to pharmaceutical company web pages. (See “Mosby’s drugconsult” O’Neill Reference RS 55.2 .P48 in print and on CD-ROM.)

(Basic Reference books in Pharmacology are indicated in the Nursing Research Guide under “Additional Resources” <http://www.bc.edu/libraries/research/guides/s-nursing/.add>)

Johns Hopkins Antibiotic Guide <http://www.hopkins-abxguide.org/>

Free searchable site provided by Johns Hopkins Division of Infectious Diseases, which provides “point-of-care” information about the diagnosis and treatment of infectious diseases. Requires registration to search by diagnosis, pathogen, and antibiotics. Site also provides free material for the pocket Blueberry, Pocket PC, and Palm. News and literature reviews are also featured.

SafeMedication.com <http://www.SafeMedication.com/>
American Society of Health-System Pharmacists' web page about the safe and effective use of pharmaceuticals.

The Vaccine Page <http://vaccines.com/>
A member of the "Allied Vaccine Group" <http://vaccine.org/> , "The Vaccine Page" offers news, a database for searching reliable information about vaccines, and links to the official web pages on vaccines by country, organization, provider or the public, as well as to some full-text articles.

CenterWatch Clinical Trials Listing Service <http://www.centerwatch.com/>
Includes "Drug Directories" which covers Drugs Newly Approved by the FDA , NMT Weekly Trial Results, Drugs Currently in Clinical Research, and PDR Family Guides Drug Information. Also includes "Drugs in Clinical Trials" encompassing the Drugs in Clinical Trials Database.

eDruginfo.com <http://www.edruginfo.com/edihome.htm>
Published by Lippincott Williams & Wilkins, this site provides additional links to drug updates, patient teaching, weekly herbal features, tools to be used in patient care (requires free registration), links to agencies, organizations and companies, reference books, and news summaries.

HealthWeb - Pharmacy &
Pharmacology <http://healthweb.org/browse.cfm?subjectid=72>
A collaboration of the Purdue Pharmacy, Nursing, and Health Sciences Library, Purdue University this subset of "Health Web" provides a link to information on drugs and diseases; to many continuing education web sites; to databases and some selected full-text journals, books and reference resources; and to research resources.

National Center for Complementary and Alternative
Medicine <http://nccam.nih.gov/>
This center under the National Institutes of Health <http://www.nih.gov> provides access to health information, research, clinical trials and news about complementary and alternative medicine , including herbal supplements.

HOSPITAL PHARMACY WEB PAGES

Many hospitals have a pharmacy web page. For example:

Massachusetts General Hospital Pharmacy
Department <http://www.massgeneral.org/pharmacy/index.htm>

Such web pages give policies, procedures and guidelines, formulary, IV medication guides, links to various web sites for organizations and pharmacy resources.

MEDICAL SOURCES AND INFORMATION

Internet Resources:

Healia - your search for health

<http://www.healia.com/healia/>

Great search engine for finding medical and health-related resources online. Results can then be personalized according to sex, age, medical authority, reading level, internet browser type, and more! Not a replacement for a doctor or professional but a great tool to for helping the health care consumer be better informed.

Healthfinder

<http://www.healthfinder.gov/>

A link to health resources recommended by the U.S. Government. Searching this site will provide you with a list of online resources and/or organizations you can contact to find out more about a particular health condition. There are also links to online medical journals, state health departments and audiovisual resources.

Health O@sis

<http://www.mayohealth.org/>

This site, based at the Mayo clinic, has a wide variety of resources with special sections on Women's Health, Cancer, and Diet and Nutrition. Users can register to receive a free weekly newsletter, search for information on specific drugs, or just read the medical news of the week.

InteliHealth .

<http://www.intelihealth.com/>

Based at Johns Hopkins University, the InteliHealth site provides links to pages from the American Medical Association site and the National Institutes of Health site, as well as an "Ask a Doc" service, information on prescription drugs, and a link to MedLine databases.

Medscape

<http://www.medscape.com/>

Although this site is very technical, it provides a wealth of current information, including medical headlines, a medical dictionary, and access to MedLine, ToxLine, and AIDSLine.

ThriveOnline

<http://thriveonline.oxygen.com/>

A comprehensive collection of current health issues and links to popular health magazines, such as "Shape" and "Men's Health". This site has information on just about anything you might want to know about health-related issues, including fitness, nutrition, medical conditions, and medications.

Reuters Health Information Service

<http://www.reutershealth.com/>

A selection of current news articles on health issues. There is also a link to MedLine on this site.

MedicineNet.

<http://www.medicinenet.com/>

This site contains information on diseases and treatments, a link to drug information, a medical dictionary and an "Ask the Experts" service.

American Medical Association.

<http://www.ama-assn.org/>

A link to the American Medical Association homepage.

Yahoo's list of Medicine Resources.

<http://www.yahoo.com/Health/Medicine/>

Yahoo's very comprehensive list of links related to medical topics. This would be a good place to start if you do not know exactly what you want to find.

Information on Prescription Drugs:

RXMed.

<http://www.rxmed.com/>

The RXMed site provides links to patient handouts for many medications and general drug information. <http://pharminfo.com/>

Information on various drugs, as well as disease-specific information and discussion groups. This site appears to be updated daily, with a section devoted to a daily topic, such as dietary supplements.

Print Sources:

There are many books to choose from about general medical topics. If you are interested in learning more about general medicine, you might consider looking for some of the following titles in your library or bookstore:
